Pillsbury Biscuit Jam

Corporate promotional tours are a great way to enjoy some free music and benefit local charities. At least, they are at the Pillsbury Perfect Portions Biscuit Jam! This event took place at the urban garden of Pegasus Square in downtown Dallas, and benefited several local charities, including the North Texas Food Bank and the Dallas Children's Museum.

Performing at the Biscuit Jam was Josh Turner, a new country artist that has turned some heads lately in the country music world. His latest single, "Long Black Train", has been nominated for the Country Music Association "Song of the Year" Awards. Josh did a phenomenal acoustic set while his fans sampled Pillsbury biscuits and enjoyed the stunning October weather in downtown Dallas.

Stage Right's involvement came from Vince Hass, lead sales manager for Stage Right. "It really was a great show. Josh has played for much larger crowds, but the important thing is that the crowd was having a great time and the client was well satisfied with the sound and staging that Stage Right provided for the event."

Stage Right regularly does events in the downtown Dallas area for a multitude of corporate clients. Check the Stage Right website for more Project Profiles - and ideas for your next event!
